Said he was Found Not Guilty.

Washington, June 11. No official intimation is given of the action of general court martial in the case of Commander

W. H. Lyon, tried at Newport last week on charge of negligence of duty by which the tug Triana was stranded oft Cuttyhunk, Mass. It is understood, however, that the court found Commander Lyon not guilty. The fact that he had voluntarily taken charge of the Trians and was on the way to the rescue of the stranded Galena and Nina at Gay Head when his tug went ashere operated in his favor.

Commander Bickhell, who was in charge of the taitent at the time, was sentenced to two jears suspension, but upon him, in the uplinor of the court, rested a responsibility that apparently did not attach to Commander Lyon. British Champions in America The London From al I e of May 1 discusses the tin plate short on in Wale

On the coe hand we hear that it itions of dollars have already been revested in plant, and that the plant making is shour to boom in Yankeeland on the other we are told that not a sheet of the plant has been shade there or will be made there for years. Foubtless the truth hes some where hetween these two extremes. As yet the efforts in this direction made in the states are perhaps chiefly tentative but few people doubt that sooner or later they will be crowned with success. Baw materials, capital and feelment skill are all at hand or can be easily obtained. Fine alone is wanting to build up the industry but it is to be feared that the Weish manufacturers are deceiving themselves if they imagine that a decide must clapse before On the one hand we hear that no hone magipe that a decide must clapse before my impression can be made on their busi rivals across the water The British Cobdenite is not so unpervi-able to fact as his American brother 100 often have the Fuglish seen the supremact we P wrested from them in other industries to doubt of the future of American tin plate makuter. They remember how it was with teel and pig iron and watches and num- beriess other things and they tremble at the future of their timplate industry But the efforts of his American friends have not gone unnot ed by the Britisher Their presente here is the one ray of hope which appears to the Furne il Times through the gloom of the tin plate situation "It continues

A year or two, however, will certainly intervene before the competition can be really dangerous. Long ere ther time it is to be hoped that the American people will have form up the McKinley law root and branch or at least have proneed it judiciously signs are not wanting that this will come about. The Welsh manufacturers have some strong sidner, when facturers have some strong siding cham-pions in (hicago and elsewhere

What an incentive, to be sure for Americans to hasten the destruction of the tariff and crush our own budding in dustries is this cry of distress from Wales. No doubt the "strong siding hampions of "the Welsh manufacturers in Chicago and elsewhere will now push on their work of tariff 'reform propaga-gation with renewed vigor We wish them joy of the title they bear and the masters they serve

Some Specimen 'McKinley Prices

The Boston harrol makes the following good point on the free trade editors. An excellent test of the relative prices of food, clothing, tools and farm and domestic utensils under the old and under the new tariff has lately been obtained by the in dian Bureau Contracts have been award. ed for Indian annulty and other goods and supplies, amounting to more than $2,000,000 included in these supplies are quantities of woolen blankets, shawls, overcosts, suits of clothing, calico and other cotton cloth, builders' hardware stoves, kitchen utensils, axes, plows, hoes and other agricultural tools, besides large amounts of beef, pork, corp, oats and sour Assistant Secretary Bussey had personal charge of the awarding of the contracts, and, in fact, personally inspected the samples of goods furnished by the successful bidders. Gen. Bussey, is a good authority, therefore, on McKimey prices. He tells a cor-respondent of the New York Tribune that for all manufactured goods, such its cloth-ing, bardware, tools, uses the etc., the prices this year were as lower last year, or lower. For beef, flour and other agri-cultural products the prices were a little higher. Asked if he could buy woolsh goods as cheaply as he could last year be-fore the McKinker tasts. fore the McKinley tariff went late opera-fore the McKinley tariff went into opera-toin, Cen. Bussey ruplied:

"Yet, and the quality of the goods is better. For example, signs-pound westen blesshest last year ever the Government and two Indians (6.38 a pair; this year they will seek (6.31 a pair, . The same waterspices who depicted it them last year water the example better this year, and the strapples water than the well raised the first tariffer. The libral sits well raised the CFF TRESSES TO and steel and hardware of every descrip-tion—everything, in fact—costs a little less than last year "

Here are a few hard truths which, it is safe to say, will have a very limited circulation in the columns of our Democratic press Confronted by facts like these, and by such figures as the Senatorial commission will chait, a repetition next autumn of the wholesale lying about "McKinley prices which characterized the Bourbon canyass in November last will be a sheer a Fightrope of Mrs. Kanfman's Ciuthesline, Picks Putty Out of a Skylight and Steals Pennics and Milk.

For two years now Jocko has been having things pretty much his own way in a back ward in East Fourth street. But at last he has run up against a snag Doubtless it Jockb had been content with his own back yard and had not gone about prowling for new back yards to conquer, his name today would not be on the blotter of the health board's big book. At the weekly meeting of the board it will be decided whether he may keep up his nomidic proclivities un-molested or whether in the future he is to be chained to a ring in the area steps.

Jocko is the pet monkey of Josef Hoffmann, who does a brisk business in the basement at 37 East Fourth street A sea captain who had come home from a voyage to sinth America for cocoanuts, brought back Jocko with him, and gave the annual to Mr Hoffmann If Jocko had stuck his long, sharp claws into Mr Hoffman's heart be couldn't have secured a deeper hold on that portion of the latters anatemy than he did on the first day of his installment in the basement in East Fourth street

Every twenty four hours which have passed since then have only soldered more firmly the nes between the monkey and his master—So fond, indeed, has his owner become of the curious hithe animal that he has never had the heart to correct him in any way. The result was the usual one. Jocko was spoiled.

JOCKO AND THE CLOTHESLINE So one day as Jocko was sitting runn-nating in the back yard, with a leg swung about the trellis and his fail wound around the grape vine, he spied Mrs. Kaufman, of the third floor, back, hanging her asishing out to dry.

Mrs. Kanfinan closed the window.

leaving her linen which she had got up_at 6 o clock to wash, hanging in the suit. Jocko waited a whole minute after he heard the sash bang. Then with a cat-like movement, he gained the top of the high back lence scampered up the lire escape of an adjoining building, made a well calculated leap of three feet and landed on the nearest point of vantage of the taut ropes of Mrs. Kaufman's clotheshne Like a tightrope walker, Jocko tripped along the line. He put up one paw to his whisker, just as the real performer does when he similes and throws the inimitable kise to the audience. Then

Jocko began his nertal feats in earnest When Mrs. Kaufman went to had in her lines that evening she stood as one amazed Her stockings strewed the ground below like the fallen leaves of Vallambrosa Her table loths and sheets, where they were not torn in places, were tracked in a pattern in which the chief figure was the imprint of a muddy paw Signe of her liner was actually missing Mrs Kanfman had to get up early the next morning again, pull out her thread and needle, and, after mending for almost an hour do her whole wash over. But Jocks never ran annek! among Mrs Kamman's wash any more, He had experienced a new sebsation, and having once satisfied himself with that he began to cost about for fresh fields and pastures new Of course, it he wanted to make use of Mrs. Kanfman's of any other person's convenient lines, Jucko never hesitated to use them as a public thoroughfare. But as a diversion lotheshues had lost their soductive charms for the moukey. THE HATTER PROTESTS while looking about unother morning for something "new and strange" he clambered up on to the roof of the extension built out from a hat store on the The skylight was open and Joko began dropping odd bits which he picked up off the roof down into the room below. His Simian Majesty was scared away Then Jorko's instanctive feeling of distable for the Hyman family asserted itself The next day and the next Jocko quietly perched lumselt on the rim of the sky-light over the extension of the hatter and began tacking away the party about the panes—But Jocko had not progressed far in his operations before he was found out—Then Mr. Hyman's patience gave out, for he saw his hying apartments threatened with a leak. He was not as complacent as his neighbor, Mra. Kauf man who satisfied her grievaper by shorting out vergeance from her back windows upon the monkey. The latter went right down to the board of health and beiged a complaint against Mr. Hoffmann's pet

One of Jocko's tricks is to go out early in the morning and steal the penness which are placed in milk pitchers, and another is to gather up letters which the postman leaves under the basement gates then the monker's home. Whether he views the Raham at the corner with in strictive hatred or as a natural friend it is impossible to say but sure at as that when Jako wants a peanut or a fig he makes no scruple of largeing one, from the stand. Another one of Jockob Funning ways is to stick his snort into any mytting bottle of milk or dish of pudding that is set out of a bock cardon to ding that is set out of a back winds ding that is set out of a back window to cool, and then make his escape with his stomach full of the debracy. Pending the result of the inquiry Mr. Hoffmann is a little anxious for fear the health board may compel him to imprison his dear Jocke. But Jocke runs plant in a manufacture is an all earth on their for cores. about as usual with no tear for conse-quences at all. One shake of his right paw again-t his left whisker "fixed" the sanitary in-pector. And if that was not sufficient Jocké knows enough to ques-tion the right of the health board to interfere in his case at all .- New York

The Great Crevisses of Mount St. Fillian.
Crossing the great showfield forming the floor of the amphitheater were hundreds of yourning chashes, many of their twenty to forty feet in breadth and half a mile in length. These we had to cross by marrow snow bridges for follow for long distances before being able to pass around their ends. A new into the blue depths of one of these great crevisses is a sight never to be forgotten. Their lips are of white show, the color changes by imperceptible gradations to the deepest blue. Their extreme depths are as dark in color as the junfathomable sea. Many tipues their bottoms are beyond the reach of vision, again they are level floored and from a fairlible with water of the deepest blue with water of the deepest blue with extreme depths are as dark in color as the junfathomable sea. Many tipues their bottoms are beyond the reach of vision, again they are level floored and from a fairlible with water of the deepest indigo, in which every detail of the fretted walls above is reflected.

Some of the larger crevisses are crossed by snow arches, thrown directly from bank to bank, and resembling in their grand proportions the natural bridge of Viegonia. Our way lay for miles across this beautiful but treacherous pavenient along the brink of dizzy precipaced and across narrow bridges with bortonless guffs on each hand. Although we had been living on the glaciers for weeks and had become femiliar with many of their wonders, the great crevasses in the hoper snow regions were so magnificent in their proportions and so wonderful in color that they called forth exclamations of admiration from every member of our party.—Israel C. Why a Rat's Teeth Grow Continually. Certain animals have teeth which grow during all their lives. The rat and the squirrel are examples of this. Our own teeth are developed from pulps, which are absorbed and disappear after the teeth are grown, but in a rat's tooth the pulp is perpetual and is continually secreting material by which the incisor gains length. Therefore the animal is obliged to gnaw all the time te keep the tooth ground down to the proper length. It is commonly imagined that the rat keeps gnawing from pure cussedness, but such is not the case. Sometimes it happens that the beaut's upper anti-lower facinors do not meet proper ly, so that it is unable to gnaw, and its Why a Rat's Teeth Grow Continually.

Lusing Heat from Fire.

One of the stories Kit Carson used to tell, and one be told to often that he must have thought it possessed some merit, was of an Indian who vivited a camp of white men and indicated their idea of keeping warm in the open air. The untutored con-of nature claimed that his white brother built after so hot that he could not get near it without being burned, while the Indian built asmall fire, crept close, and indian built esmall fire, crept close, and got all the heat.

Of course, though, he did not get all the heat. And the problem before the mind of the man who started out in the development of what is now the parlor store was to get all possible out of the firel without allowing any of the heat generated to escape. Up to date he has not quite succeeded in solving the problem.

Damaged By An Elephant. THE BEAST INFURIATED BY A BIG FIRE! GRACKER EXPLODED UNDER HIM LY A MISCHIEVOUS CARPENTER.

Royal, aged thirty, is usually a sedate and temperate elephant, and it was not his fault Tuesday that he was guilty of some premature and realistic acting on the El Dorado, ground on Weehawken Heights. where Bolossy Kiralfy will soon produce "King Solomon; or the Destruction of Jerusalem," says the New York Trib inc. Royal, in fact, is a sort of Solomon among elephants, and it was his judicious and serene bearing that recommended him to Kiralfy. The only flaw in Royal's composition is that he dosen't like firegrackers. But Mr. Kirally says that William O'Ma-honey is responsible for this, and that it will not be safe for William to venture near Royal bereafter.

Royal has been working in the El Dorado garden for several weeks, earning his bread like anybody else employed there, by hard work. It was his duty to assist in moving rocks and shifting scenery, and he did his work so well that he was worth four or five horses. And the big fellow Heights be could see the Goddess, of Lib. erty and even the elephant on Concy Is-

Three or four hundred men were latering away at the grounds Tuesday, putting on the fluishing touches that are to turn the place into a coliseum, and Royal was the happiest creature on the grounds. But William, who is a froitcome young curpenter, could not bear to see the elephant take life so quietly, and prepared a pleasant little surprise for his sedate old friend. O'Mahoney was engaged with a number of carpenters in building the stage, and Royal was ponderously transping up and down in front of it. O'Mahoney slipped off the structure lust as Royal passed by, showing a big boulder in front of him, and dropped a lighter cannon firecracker under the elephant's hod legs without calling Royal's attention to the circumstance. Then he jumped back on to the stage.

There was a terrific explosion, and Roy-There was a terrific explosion, and Royal nearly tumbled to the ground in anagement. But he rose with a fearful and a bound and should toot that caused pilots on the Weehawken ferryboats to grab their wheels in trepidation. The next serond the enraged and frightened beast, with his tail in the air and his ears dapping, broke into a headlong run across the garden, over grass-plots, flower-beds and all, straight for a crowd of workingmen in front of the grand-stand.

O'Mahoney disappeared through the stage like the villain in the play, while Bolossy Kirally shot up from under the stage like a harlequintle see what mischier was going on. He saw the elephant scadterror.

A big darkey was so paralyzed with fright that he fell into a bed of mortar, and got his mouth so choked up that he could not yell, and his ears, eyes and half so full of the stuff that it took an hour to wash him and dry him up. Some men climbed trees, and one man in his fear began to shake a tree—why, be himself does not know. But the insjority of the crowd simply ran out of Royal's path for their lives.]

not know. But the majority of the crowd simply ran out of Royal's path for their lives.]

The grounds occupy some acres and Royal had plenty of room. He made first for the grand stand, which he attacked in his rage. He ripped off fifty feet of the fancy railing, and threw the stuff over the Palisades. But there was one cool man in the whole crowd, and he was the exphant's keeper. By the time Royal hed begun to smash the railing the keeper was, by his side. The infurlated beast turt.d., but the keeper stack his hook toto Royal's ear. Nevertheless, Royal plunged along toward a beautiful and costly flower tid, trumpeting wildly all the time, and dragging the keeper with him. The flower-bed was trampled into ruins, and then Royal starbed off on another run. But this lime he brought up against a lig stone fence that he could not climb and in a few moments the keeper had him, in hand. Still, it was some time before Riyal waspentiely subdued.

Royal will take part in the opening of the show on June 22, but O'Mahoney won't. He has been "fined" for his little joke.
